Borough Hall Gym Renovation Given Major Boost with Gift of Full Kitchen

Everything but coffee and doughnuts–that's the kitchen gift package for Princeton's senior citizens from New Jersey Bell Telephone.

The complete kitchen, including a giant refrigerator, will be installed in the Borough Hall gym, now being rejuvenated for senior use.

It all came about because Walter Coan, a key senior in the remodeling, went on a tour of a Bell Telephone facility, and happened to mention the remodeling project. A Bell public relations staff member, Bill McGuire, told Mr. Coan that Bell was dismantling all its staff kitchens. Could Princeton use one?

Quicker than an egg over light, Mr. Coan said yes indeed.

With Steve Margerum, his colleague on the remodeling job, Bill Karch, head of facilities for Princeton's schools; plumbing contractor Sam Nini, who has devoted many volunteer hours to fixing up the gym, and Denise King, Senior Center Director, Mr. Coan went up to Morristown to look at Ma Bell's kitchen. Everybody liked it just fine.

"Little miracles kept happening, left and right," Ms. King says, "the kitchen itself, then Anchor Moving and Storage brought it down here without any charge."

It hasn't been decided yet who will install the kitchen, but the way things are smoothing along, this shouldn't be a problem.

Work on the gas heat furnace system, with its new boiler, is almost complete, Mr. Coan reports. Only fans and blowers in the roof await installation.

Apprentices with Local Number Nine of the Steamfitters and Plumbers union, are learning their craft by working on the furnace at no cost to the seniors. Parts are at the union's school on Nottingham Way, where apprentices go to school.

Toilets need only new drop ceilings and tile walls. Then the fixtures, already delivered, can be installed. These rooms were in the gym addition that was badly damaged by fire, and a great deal of work had to be done here. The kitchen, incidentally, will be across the hall, to the right of the main gym door.

Beams in this small addition were weakened by the fire, and the roof leaked. It has now been patched, and according to roofers Cooper and Schafer, is strong enough to hold against a couple of heavy snowstorms, thereby giving the seniors time to raise money for a complete roof.

The main gym roof was patched by Mr. Coan himself. Along with Mr. Margerum, he belongs to Local 791 of the carpenters union, whose members have blocked off the old gym stage, dropping the ceiling and installing doors, This work, too, was donated, with the carpenters usually working one day a week.

Ms. King says the steamfitter and plumber apprentices have done $8,500 worth of volunteer work, and the carpenters about $1,500 worth. A major part of the cement work, she says, was done by Mr. Nini, and two Township police officers on off-duty time–

State Promises to Avoid Long Delay in Negotiations With Borough over Renovation of Dinky Station Area

"We'll avoid any protracted delay or changing of basic signals–we don't want to go back to square one," Commissioner of Transportation Louis J. Gambaccini told TOWN TOPICS this week, following expressions of dismay by Borough officials that progress with the state on a Dinky station development agreement seemed to be at a dead halt.

According to Martin Robbins, whom Commissioner Gambaccini said he had delegated to "expedite results," a proposal letter went out this week to Borough Council member Richard Macgill, who has been handling Dinky station matters for the Borough.

The letter, from the New Jersey Transit Corporation, which owns the station property, is a two-part proposal as follows:

Under a joint development option agreement, the Borough would find a developer who would be willing to develop the Dinky station area, perhaps with a hotel, offices, apartments, parking garage, or whatever. This would be combined with an arrangement under which the Borough would lease the station from New Jersey Transit now, for a five-year period presumably on a dollar-a-year basis.

This protects New Jersey Transit in case no developer materializes, Mr. Robbins pointed out. If there is development, he says, the lease would "evaporate," and it could run for as short a time as a year, depending on how development plans proceed.

New Jersey Transit's chief interest is in the existing station, regardless of whether or not there is development. The corporation wants some controls over development, Mr. Robbins said, mostly to make sure the station continues to operate, and that there is provision for enough parking.

Mr. Macgill, reporting on a July 16 meeting with state officials, said the proposition made at that time was "ridiculous."

David R. Solow, special assistant-rail stations, in the office of New Jersey Transit's executive director, told Mr. Macgill the state would fix up the Dinky station-characterized by Mr. Macgill as "a wreck."

The Borough would then lease the station for $1 a year, and be responsible for its maintenance.

"We'd be paying somebody to sweep out the dust and getting no corresponding income in return," Mr. Macgill stated. "I told them the Borough was unwilling to assume this responsibility. It is particularly ridiculous when we could be on the verge of signing up a developer."

The Councilman said the Borough wanted to be sure that new, additional parking is provided, with space for a bus or van to pull up and discharge car-pool passengers, and so on.

Barbara Sigmund, Mercer County Freeholder who is also a Borough resident, says this particular, peculiar Princeton development must be established as a separate kind of thing from other similar railroad station projects in New Jersey.

Norm Servis and Frank Boccanfuso. She says she cannot begin to calculate the "thousands of dollars" in professional time donated by architect E. Harvey Myers.

The state's Title V grant of about $22,000, went for the new boiler (a donated one was the wrong size), plumbing supplies, and fixtures, electrical wiring, pipes and so on.

The Princeton Senior Citizen's Club fund drive brought in almost $15,000. The Patrolmen's Benevolent Association gift of $1,500 has been used for tables and folding chairs so the seniors can begin activities as soon as the gym is ready. Roy Carnevale anticipated the start-up by building and donating a podium for speakers to use in the big main room.

Money collected in the fund drive has also been used for telephone bills (enter Bell Tel again), and to provide lunches for volunteer workers. Members of the Senior Citizens club have come to the gym to prepare coffee and lunch on a portable refrigerator-range donated by Ethel Peresett.

But the seniors are carefully husbanding $10,000 to use for the first year's operating expenses. Nobody has any way of knowing what heat and electricity bills will add up to. Everybody hopes the $10,000 will be enough.

When major renovation is finished--and Mr. Coan and Ms. King both expect completion early this fall--the seniors will look at anticipated costs, and try to find innovative ways of getting what they need.

Already they are conferring with Borough Council on sources of money for a Phase II, which would include proper roofing to insulate the cavernous building, office partitions and so on.

Meanwhile, Bell Telephone is as close as a dial tone.

"If you need anything else," Mr. McGuire reportedly told Mr. Coan, "let us know."

And Mr. Coan promised, "Don't worry--we will."

AMENDMENTS ON AGENDA

For Planning Board in Fall. The first amendments to the new Master Plan are on the agenda for public hearing at two early September Planning Board meetings.

They involve service zones, possible high-density housing at the Route 206 - Mountain Avenue triangle, and professional office - residential zoning at Harrison and Valley.

Meanwhile, the Planning Board, which has held 63 meetings since January 1, has decided to catch its breath; no formal meetings have been scheduled for August.

Board and staff have been buried in paperwork, not only bringing the Master Plan to completion in May, but hearing complex and pressing cases at the same time. Minutes going back more than a year have still not been formally approved by the board, according to the board's administrator Pearl Pillon. Instead, Mrs. Pillon says, some have been "endorsed as an accurate record of the meeting," in case they are required by lawyers.

In addition to Mrs. Pillon, the board office has one other full-time employee and a part-time secretary. Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini says Borough and Township have authorized a full-time secretary, using money originally budgeted for a planner, whom everybody had hoped might be hired by September 1, but who clearly won't be on board — Planning Board, that is — by that date.

A planner, Mrs. Pillon has observed, might simply generate more paper work; on the other hand, whoever is hired for the job might also relieve board members themselves of paperwork, in Mr. Nini's view.

In another budget matter, Mr. Nini reported, the Master Plan and its implementation have dumped an additional load on Planning Board attorney Allen Porter, and the board has spilled over its budgeted amount for his services.

Whatever work he does on ordinances and other matters pertaining solely to the Township will be paid for by the Township, Mr. Nini said. Borough and Township will share Mr. Porter's expenses for such things as conditional high-density ordinances that apply to both municipalities.

Service Zone Changes. The first amendment to the Master Plan to be considered by the board will be a service zones amendment. Thursday, September 4, has been scheduled as the hearing date.

At present, property-owners are allowed to cover 90 percent of the lot in a service zone, and may build to a 55-foot height. The board, particularly concerned about so-called "gateway" areas along Alexander Street and Route 206 North, plans to recommend height and setback limits. No specific figures have been proposed.

On Tuesday, September 9, the board will consider recommending high-density housing for the triangle of land formed by Route 206, the cut-off portion of Bayard Lane and the extension of Mountain Avenue. At the same meeting, the board will discuss a zone allowing both residential and professional office use at Valley and Harrison.

...INCLUDING THE KITCHEN SINK. A complete kitchen, no longer needed by New Jersey Bell Telephone, has been donated by the company to the Princeton Senior Citizens Club. It will be installed in the Borough Hall gym, now being remodeled for senior use. Bill McGuire, right, is the Bell Telephone public relations staff member who handled the gift. Left is Denise King, Senior Center director, and center is architect E. Harvey Myers who is guiding the remodeling process.

Sameric Seeking to Split Garden into 2 Theatres

Sameric Corporation, which holds a long-term lease from Princeton University to run both the Garden and Playhouse, is seeking to make a twin movie theatre out of the Garden.

Building plans filed July 9 with the Borough Building Inspector Bernard Glover show a new partition splitting the Garden in half lengthwise and creating two identical auditoriums, each with a seating capacity of 427. The application was denied on July 15 because various provisions of the state's "Barrier Free Regulations" do not appear to have been met, according to Mr. Glover.

By state law, the renovation of existing public buildings must incorporate new state regulations designed to provide access for the handicapped. Some of the items Mr. Glover has queried on the plans are whether there is a provision for seating for the handicapped, doors too narrow for wheelchair access to rest rooms, and adequate ventilation throughout.

Under the plan as drawn by a Philadelphia architect hired by Sameric, the two side aisles presently at the Garden would become center aisles in the two new mini-auditoriums. There would be 24 or 25 rows of seven seats each off each aisle. One of the regulations says that there shall be not more than six seats intervening between two aisles, but Sameric's plan shows seven. If the seats are shown to be self-raising, that's OK, says Mr. Glover, but the plans don't make that clear.

According to John Conlan, Sameric manager for the Lawrenceville Sameric Theatres who also "oversees" Princeton, Sameric officials first approached Carl Schafer, president of Palmer Square Inc., and Jack Yeoman, Treasurer, for their approval. Sameric also wanted to "twin" the Playhouse, Mr. Conlan said, but permission was not granted because the whole of Palmer Square, including the Playhouse is up for sale and its future is unclear.

Mr. Conlan said that the architect who drew the plans for splitting the Garden was not aware of New Jersey's complicated codes. New plans are being drawn, he said, and should be ready by next week. If approval is granted by the building inspector, the Garden would close for six weeks to allow for the reconstruction.

An applicant may also seek a variance by going before the Borough Building Board of Approval, Mr. Glover said. This is a five-man board which invites a "barrier-free advocate" — a person familiar with the regulations who is also handicapped — to sit as a sixth member.

The existing single screen would be removed and two new screens constructed in front of each auditorium. A new exit is shown at the rear of the auditorium closest to Bainbridge House, but the present single projection booth would serve both houses. The total estimated cost is listed at $15,000.

Future Growth of Medical Center Is Debated By Borough and Township; A 10-Story J-Wing?

In 1963, when Princeton Hospital was before the Borough Zoning Board for a variance which would allow it to build the J-wing addition, permission was granted for that wing to go up as high as 10 stories.

The bulk of a building that high, and the attendant traffic and parking problems, loomed over members of Township Committee and Borough Council meeting in joint session last Wednesday to discuss the creation of a hospital zone, much as it will loom over its residential neighbors on Witherspoon Street if indeed it is built to that height.

The variance granted for 10 stories is valid as long as the zoning ordinance from which relief was sought still pertains. The Borough adopted a new zoning ordinance in 1968, but Township and Borough Attorney Edwin Schmierer has advised the two municipalities that there is another body of law that says if an applicant acts in reliance on a variance by--in this case--installing the foundations, footings and extra-heavy columns to support the extra stories--the variance is still in effect.

"You've got to assume the Medical Center has five stories that haven't been built yet," said Mayor Robert Cawley, by way of opening the discussion on how to create one hospital zone under the zoning ordinances of the two municipalities as recommended by the Master Plan.

For close to two hours the discussion went round and round without ever coming to a decision on what the boundaries of the hospital zone would be and what limitations, if any, might be imposed on future growth of the hospital or of doctors' offices on a hospital campus.

TOPICS
Of The Town

Permitted Uses Would Be Listed. "What purpose would a hospital zone serve that is not already being served by Borough and Township zoning ordinances? Councilman Robert McChesney asked. "Isn't creating a hospital zone similar to closing the barn door after the horse has been stolen--very much after the fact?"

Mayor Cawley answered that since hospital use is not now permitted in either municipality's ordinances, the hospital has to go up for a variance every time it wants to add to its facilities. A hospital zone, he said, could set forth permitted medical uses and conditional uses.

Doctors' offices are also not permitted. "If you have a limiting factor in terms of land and parking," Mayor Cawley suggested, "you might find that the hospital is more important and not as easily moveable, and if something has to give, it would be Medical Arts facilities. Or you could leave that decision to the hospital."

Councilman Richard McGill wondered if medical arts buildings should be in a hospital zone at all and cited cities such as Baltimore which has several fine hospitals and very few M.D.s near them. "There's some desireability, but is it a necessity?" he asked.

"It depends on the neighborhood," answered Committeewoman Kate Litvak, "We have to figure out what we're going to fit in and what we can't fit in."

Limits To Growth. Charles Cornforth suggested using size as a criterion, allowing the hospital to increase by a certain percentage of the present 271 beds. Mayor Cawley suggested trying to figure out what is the maximum parking and traffic the area can tolerate and then translating that back into sizes.

There was a feeling that, as overwhelming as the impact of a 10-story addition would be on its immediate neighborhood as well as on the Princeton sky-line, there could be some negotiation with the Medical Center authorities–putting the extra five stories on another part of the "campus," for instance.

Medical Center vice president Dennis Doody commented that the only economical way to expand is to go up, but he said that the hospital was expecting only "slow growth" through the next 20 years as health care turns more to out-patient and preventive care.

The Medical Center anticipates no more new beds through 1983, he said. Citing Merwick, Princeton House, and the satellite out-patient service at Jamesburg, he said, "Anytime we can move off the Witherspoon Street site, we do."

"The hospital will have to limit its growth, or we will have to limit it for them," said Mr. McGill sternly, pointing out that the Medical Center's philosophy has been that bigger is better in terms of health care and quality of doctors that are attracted. He suggested that each governing body name two members who would meet, along with the two mayors, with hospital authorities to try to figure out the specifics of a hospital zone.

One thing all Committee and Council members were in agreement on was that doctors' offices should be required to provide parking and that neighboring streets can't count to fulfill that requirement.

Committeeman William Cherry was concerned about what he termed "traffic saturation of access routes to the hospital," and raised the possibility of a need for banning all parking all along Witherspoon Street to provide better access.

Better Late Than Never

My lawn surrendered—
Turned pale brown—
And then the rain
Came pouring down!

No doubt many people had to change plans for the beach, a picnic or a tennis game on Tuesday, but that rain which started before dawn and kept up for most of the day brought welcome relief for parched lawns and gardens. And what a pleasure not to have the accompanying high winds, thunder and lightning.

Wednesday was expected to produce clearing weather and if the forecast holds up we will be right back into hot and sunny weather on Thursday and on into the weekend. But it shouldn't be as long between rainy days this time.

STUDENT DIES

In Vermont Accident. Kathy Ludlum, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Ludlum, 285 Riverside Drive, died Tuesday morning in the Burlington, Vermont, hospital of injuries sustained last Thursday, July 24, in an automobile accident.

Miss Ludlum was a student at the University of Vermont, and had been studying and working in Vermont this summer. The accident, reportedly a head-on collision which also involved other Princeton residents, occurred as the group was returning from a swim.

Others in the car were Peter Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Perry Morgan, 35 Edgehill; John Rodgers, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. P. Rodgers, Cherry Hill Road and Wells Coalfleet, Cherry Hill Road. Young Morgan was treated for injuries and released, John Rodgers sustained broken bones and Wells Coalfleet was reportedly not injured.

THREE DRIVERS VICTIMS

Of Last Week's Storm. Three drivers were the victims of falling trees and limbs during last Tuesday's violent thunderstorm.

When a large tree fell across Nassau Street at Washington Road at 7:35, portions of it fell on the trunk and rear windows of a small foreign car turning from Nassau onto Washington. The driver, Curtis H. Taney, 155 Washington Road, escaped injury but he estimated damage to his car at $200.

At 7:34, as Robert F. Black of Fairless Hills, Pa., was driving on Stockton near the Stony Brook Bridge, lightning struck a tree and a large limb fell across the road. He applied his brakes, but could not avoid striking the limb. Although Mr. Black was able to drive away, his car sustained minor front end damage.

Twenty-one minutes later, while Jeffrey P. Carter of Cranbury was traveling north on Stockton near Lovers Lane, a tree began to fall into the roadway. Unable to avoid it, he struck it with his front fender. He was also able to drive away.

Twp. Police Without Power. From 1:10 until 2:15 in the morning Township police headquarters was completely blacked out without any power. No lights, telephones, or radios were working. Radio station WHWH was also out, police said.

"We were never fully out of radio communication because of our portable walkie-talkies," commented Chief Porter. "We were still able to operate under emergency conditions."

But Chief Porter conceded with the home security alarm board acting up and without lights it was "chaotic for the deskman." Power was restored to the northeast section at 1:45 a.m.

Chief Porter reminded residents that in an emergency situation or whenever they cannot reach Township police, call Borough police. "We will do the same for them if the Borough communication system is ever knocked out," he said.

Chief Porter commented when high winds and lighting began to topple trees and limbs, bringing down wires, police had difficulty in reaching state highway, county, and Bell Telephone repair crews.

Power at the police station first went out at 7:57 when a transformer was hit on Witherspoon Street. Reports came in of trees down on

July? Dry

July in New Jersey — the driest martini you ever saw, with a real hangover for shrubs, trees and gardens.

The rain-gauge on Magnolia Lane belonging to Daniel Mazzarella, of Science Associates, registered 2.93 inches, as of 1 p.m. this Tuesday. That's for the 29 days since July 1. For the entire 31 days of July last year, Mr. Mazzarella's total was 8.46 inches — more than twice as much.

He cites the following average rainfall figures for the past ten years, as assembled by the Geophysical Fluid Dynamics Laboratory near Princeton: June, 4.67 inches; July, 4.95 inches; August, 5.28 inches.

Five years ago, of course, July had two severe floods. What's your choice?

Nassau Builders Headed Back to Planning Board with New Plans

The appeal route between Township Committee and Planning or Zoning boards has come to be a well-worn path. Bryce Thompson, who took the route when he appealed the Planning Board's rejection of his Nassau Builders application to Committee, is now reversing his steps and taking Nassau Builders back to the Planning Board in revised form.

His first stop will be the Environmental Design Review Committee, where he will appear on Tuesday, August 19. The Planning Board has set aside September 4, 6, 9 and 11 to hear the application after the EDRC appearance. Those dates include a 9:30 a.m. Saturday session because Nassau Builders has a September 12 deadline.

Township Committee in mid-May remanded Nassau Builders to the Planning Board by a 3-2 vote. Committee also told the board to consider the application as a revision, not as a new application.

Nevertheless, it looks quite different from the 11-lot Office Research zone subdivision Mr. Thompson originally laid out before the planners. This time, Mr. Thompson has residential lots, 19 of them comprising 12.9 acres. There are also eight office-research lots on 43.3 acres and 15.6 acres of open space, plus two culs-de-sac.

Mr. Thompson's property (see map) is on Herrontown Road, bounded by the rear of lots facing Mt. Lucas and the rear of lots that face a private road.

Legal Limbo? Geographically, it lies in the township's new R-B zone, which has a minimum lot size of three acres. Legally, however, it may lie in something of a limbo. As a revised application, will it be considered by the Planning Board as existing in the old Office-Research category, where it was when Mr. Thompson first applied, or will it be considered as part of the R-B zone?

Since Mr. Thompson first took Nassau Builders to the Planning Board, Township Committee has passed an ordinance allowing residential construction in Office-Research zones. His first application did not have any residential lots.

Incidentally, although Mr. Thompson owns the Nassau Builders land, he is not the developer. He has said that he plans to sell the lots to anyone who wants to develop them.

Rejection of Nassau Builder's application by the Planning Board last December came after half a dozen hearings. The board's chief reason for turning Mr. Thompson down was fear of traffic. If the plot were developed with a floor-area ratio of 24 percent—and 45 percent was allowed in the Office-Research zone at the time—traffic on Herrontown and Mt. Lucas might be increased three or four times, the board declared. If lots were used for offices only, and not for research, traffic would be even heavier.

The board also said sewage disposal went beyond what the Township has left of its allotment in the Montgomery sewer system, and construction of water lines would damage the steep, wooded slopes of the property.

Appearing before Committee, Mr. Thompson's attorney, Thomas C. Jamieson, said Mr. Thompson would be willing to use the steep-slope parts of his property for residential use—and he has now done so.

Another piece of Thompson property known as Princeton Research Lands was unanimously approved in March by the Planning Board. It is across Herrontown Road from Nassau Builders. Both the Thompson parcels lie in that part of the Township where office-research construction now must have a floor-area ratio of 12 percent under a new ordinance which Mr. Thompson is challenging in court. The previous allowed ratio was 45 percent.

BACK AGAIN: Although the Planning Board may sigh "Deja vu!" when it receives a Nassau Builders application from Bryce Thompson, it will find an application different from the one it rejected in December. This sketch-map shows the location of Mr. Thompson's Nassau Builders property. He also owns Princeton Research Lands, an eight-lot subdivision approved in March.

Stockton and Birch Avenue. At 8:51 police finally reached Public Service to report the power outage at headquarters.

Between 9:04 and 10:38 p.m., police received reports of a tree on wires near 88 Russell Road, a tree down at the Princeton Shopping Center, low wires hanging across Cherry Hill Road and a tree down on Battle Road.

The Autumn Hill area was still without power at 7 Wednesday morning, and parts of Province Line Road were out until later in the morning.

Last week's storm was much rougher than the one the previous week, observed Chief Porter. "It seems storms are becoming more violent," he said. "We were lucky. I understand in Hamilton Township, they had direct hits by lightning on their communications system."

Borough police also listed a number of fallen trees and

Among the locations: Harrison Street, Nassau, Spruce, Lafayette, Hunter Road, Budinot, Greenview, and Evelyn Place. "Limbs were all over Wiggins Street," said Capt. Theodore Lewis. His own street--Lytle--was without power for about ten minutes," he said.

BIKE PATH APPROVED

For Elm Road. Completion of the Elm Road bike path was authorized, with Charles Cornforth's dissenting vote, by Borough Council last Thursday. The 2,177-foot continuation of the path will extend from Cleveland Lane to Stockton, and may be completed late this summer.

The $43,100 cost of constructing the path will be divided among 16 property-owners, Mercer County and the Borough. Property-owners will divide $11,000 worth of assessments depending on the front-footage of each piece of property. The county will reimburse the Borough for $22,000 for curbing, and the Borough's general fund will pick up abnut $10,000.

Borough, Township Question Census Figures

"I just don't believe you can walk through the Township and come up with 208 vacant homes," Administrator Joseph R. Nini stated this week, looking at the preliminary 1980 census counts.

And across the line in the Borough, Administrator Mark Gordon was saying approximately the same thing about the 180 vacant housing units said to be in the Borough.

Both administrators think the census-takers made a bad count. Mr. Gordon will tell the census office that between 100 and 110 new units of housing were constructed between 1970 and 1980, not the 59 claimed by the census. He counts the Willow Street townhouses, Queenston Common and several single-family homes, minus demolitions, to arrive at his 100 to 110 figure.

He said this week that he plans to ask census officials the procedure for checking vacant homes or apartments. Maybe everybody in the family was at work. Maybe they were shopping. Just how were vacancies confirmed anyway?

Mr. Nini said he is asking Edward Johnson of the Mercer County Planning Board to ask census officials for an extension of the ten-day period for responding to preliminary counts.

"We can't do our own census, but we can challenge their figures on the basis of housing counts," Mr. Nini explains. "208 vacancies is ridiculous."

The Township, by coincidence, is ahead of the game. Mayor Josie Hall, in challenging low-cost and moderate-cost housing need figures assembled from various sources for the Planning Board, went through all property record cards in the Township, noting the number of flats, apartments and new construction in recent years.

Now, with assistant administrator Mary Conrad, Mayor Hall is once again going over those figures, and eventually they will be sent to the county.

It is difficult, Mr. Nini points out, to make a perfect count, but even a few people missed, can add up: for example, residents of Tenacre, the Christian Science establishment on The Great Road; guests at Our Lady of Princeton convent on Drakes Corner Road; to say nothing of graduate students at Princeton University. and students at the Seminary. Where were they counted, in 1970? At home, or at their Princeton address? Were they counted in 1980?

"I'm assuming 1970 figures were correct," Mr. Gordon says. But he's not sure, nor is Mr. Nini.

And it matters: the Township is said to have lost 800 people in ten years, which most residents find hard to believe. The Borough is said to have gained 402.

It will be, as they say, a continuing story.

Topics of the Town

The Borough also stands to gain–and so, by extension do its taxpayers, including those assessed for the path–because the Elm Road path plus the county's path on Rosedale Road, mean that the Borough will no longer have to pay for busing school children along "hazardous" routes. The saving is estimated at $5,000.

LABELED SUSPICTOUS

Fire in Drug Store. A small fire that erupted early Friday afternoon in the Thrift Drug Store in the Princeton Shopping Center has been labeled suspicious with an unknown origin by Fire Chief William Shields.

The fire had been extinguished when Ptl. Jack Petrone Jr., responding to a 1:14 p.m. alarm, arrived, but he called for one fire engine to ventilate smoke from the store. The fire appeared to have started between the fourth and fifth row in the store and was confined mainly to plastic toys and games, Ptl. Petrone reported. The store manager estimated the damage at $100.

Chief Shields said that he believed the fire was set, because there are no electrical fixtures in the immediate area.

WINDOWS ARE BROKEN

In Pardee Circle Home. Four front windows of a Pardee Circle home were reported broken Saturday, apparently by a vandal using a stick-type instrument, said police, who found no evidence of any rocks. They had been broken sometime between July 12-26.

There was no attempt to gain entry into the vacant house. A new owner is expected to move in in August.

In another act of vandalism in the Township, a Penn Lyle Road resident in Princeton Junction told police that someone had slashed his spare radial tire while his car had been parked between 3:30 and 10 p.m. in a lot at the Opinion Research Corporation.

The trunk had been locked when he parked his car, the victim said, and police report they do not know how it was opened. There were no signs of forced entry. The tire--slashed several times–was valued at $40.

11 ARE FINED

In Traffic Court. Eleven Princeton area residents were fined Monday by Judge Philip S. Carchman in Borough traffic court.

Susana M. Tonelli, 81 Leigh Avenue, was fined $24, and Jeanne L. Lombardy, Stony Brook Road, Hopewell, $21, for speeding. Edward Nelson, 165 Hickory Court, John R. Bangs, 12 Randall Road and Zoe D. Bylin, 45 Audubon Lane, all paid $15 for overdue inspection. Careless driving cost Peter R. Kann, 143 Loomis Court, $25.

Others: Joanne E. Muse, 308 Fox Run Drive, Plainsboro, $31, speeding and $10 court costs, unlicensed driver; Thomas W. Von Oehsen, 2805 Main Street, Lawrenceville, $10, no license in possession; Bonnie J. Tulloss, 280 Nassau Street, $20, red light; and Lisa Brown, 197 Valley Road, and John F. Selah, Ridge Road, Kingston, both $25, stop sign violation.

7 BREAK-INS REPORTED

In Township. There were seven break-ins reported last week by Township police, and in three the thief visited a refrigerator.

A Gulick Road home was entered by forcing a rear basement window. Once inside, the intruder ransacked bedrooms and the kitchen and dining room areas.

Silver items were removed from a dining room cabinet and an unknown amount of coins from a tin box in the kitchen. Also taken was a bottle of beer from the refrigerator.

In a Hartley Avenue entry last week, nothing appears to have been disturbed except for two peaches taken from the refrigerator. The home was entered by prying a rear storm door, breaking a pane of glass of an interior door and reaching in and unlocking it.

A bag of Italian ices was taken from a freezer and a container of butter cookies from a kitchen cabinet in a home on Greenbrier, entered between 8 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. on Thursday.

A container of sugar had been poured in the kitchen sink and cereal scattered

DIGGING INTO THE PAST: "The Mound Builders," next play for Princeton Summer Theatre, is concerned with just that. Here are Len Galla (seated) as a thoughtful archaeologist, with Ginny Strictland as his wife, and Laurie Woolfe as their daughter.

"The Mound Builders." The kitchen middens of early American cultures may have a certain relationship to the middens of today, and that's the general theme explored by playwright Lanford Wilson in "The Mound Builders," next on stage for Princeton Summer Theatre.

The play, to be mounted in Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus, will open this Thursday, playing through August 3 and again August 7-10. Curtain-time is 8, and there will be no matinees.

Wilson is the author of "Talley's Folley," which won the Pulitzer Prize this year. Playgoers will also remember his comedy, "The Hot L Baltimore."

"The Mound Builders" was first produced in 1973. It was later filmed on location in Illinois for National Educational Television. The story concerns a summer archaeological excavation of the mounds built by early inhabitants of the North American continent. As it develops, the play ultimately focuses on the life goals of its characters, and the strains that are attendant on pursuance of those goals.

Ted Horton and Len Galla, of the PST company, will play the two archaeologists. Kellie Easterling and Ginny Strickland portray their wives--a gynecologist and photographer, respectively--Molly Hickok will be the exotic sister of one archaeologist, and Brian Jones plays the landowner whose mounds are under scrutiny.

Christopher Baumer, who directed "When You Comin' Back, Red Ryder?" and "The Birthday Party," is directing "The Mound Builders."

'CUSTER'
In McCarter Repertory.

Described as a boisterous, yet thoughtful, look at General George Custer, who left his life behind at the Little Big Horn and thereby achieved immortality, the play "Custer" has been added to McCarter's 1980-81 repertory.

Robert Ingham is the playwright. The drama has been chosen for "Best Plays of 1980-81." It had its east coast premiere last fall at the Kennedy Center, and subsequently played the Hartman Theatre in Stamford. Mel Gussow, when he caught it in Stamford, wrote for the New York Times that the play is "both a comprehensive historical portrait and an illuminating act of the imagination."

McCarter's artistic director, Nagle Jackson, who played a part in the inception of the play four years ago in Milwaukee, said this week, "It has been thrilling to watch the play grow, and to find its national recognition and become part of the American theatre mainstream. To be able to present it here in its final form, is at once challenging and greatly satisfying."

The season at McCarter will open with Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew," produced with an Otd West setting. It will play in repertory with "Moby Dick Rehearsed" by Orson Welles. The two will be on McCarter's stage from September 30 to November 9.

Mr. Jackson's adaptation of Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" will be presented from November 25 through December 14, and the new year will begin January 20 with Percy Granger's new play, "Eminent Domain," which takes place on a university campus. It will be on stage through February 8.

"Custer" will follow, from March 3 through 22. The season will conclude with Ferenc Molnar's French Riviera farce, "The Play's the Thing."

The production of Duerrenmatt's "The Visit" has been postponed to the 1981-82 season, so that McCarter may take advantage of the unexpected availability of "Custer," Mr. Jackson said.

Subscriptions are on sale for the fult series. Inquiries may be made by calling 921-8370 between noon and six, Mondays through Fridays.

The theatre will inaugurate a Saturday Twilight Series, with a 4:30 p.m. curtain-time, and a new Thursday Matinee Series at 2:30.

WOMEN, IN FILM

big-time ballet. Shirley MacLaine plays the woman who could have been a ballet star, but chose to raise a family instead. Tom Skerritt portrays her husband, and Leslie Browne is the daughter who also wants to be a ballet dancer.

Anne Bancroft is the girlhood friend who became the prima ballerina MacLaine thought she herself should have been. The supporting cast includes Mikhail Baryshnikov, who portrays a young Soviet ballet star with whom the daughter has an affair.

"Julia" is based on a portion of Lillian Hellman's autobiography, "Pentimento." In the film, Jane Fonda plays Hellman. Vanessa Redgrave is Julia, the friend for whom Hellman smuggled money through Nazi Germany to freedom for Jews and other political prisoners.

"Julia" also touches on the relationship between Hellman and writer Dashiell Hammett. Jason Robards won Best Supporting Actor in 1978 for his portrayal of Hammett, and Redgrave won Best Supporting Actress.

CARNIVAL IS NEXT

At Open Air Theatre. Studio Ensemble Theatre will make its debut at Washington Crossing's Open Air Theatre this week with Carnival.

Carnival, America's magical musical, is the story of an orphan girl, Lili (Suzanne Stachurski), who leaves her home town seeking the excitement and adventure of carnival life. B. F. Schlegel, (Jim Daily), who is the owner of a second-rate circus, takes pity on her and offers her a job. She is thrilled, but not quite carnival material.

She tries several jobs, but is fired from them all because of her incompetence. Marco the Magnificent (John Sauerman), although he already has an assistant, Rosalie (Carol La Cross), lets her work with him but, after she nearly ruins his act and shows the audience all his magical tricks, he too must turn her away.

As thoughts of suicide cloud her mind, she is stopped by the most lovable puppets she has ever seen. Paul Berthalet (Bob Culleton) and Jacquot (Richard Carlin), who are the puppeteers for this run-down side show, give Lili a new start, a chance to prove herself by adding her talents to the comedy performances of the puppets.

The cast will perform such well-known songs as "Love Makes the World Go Round" and "Always Always You," as well as entertain with their acts from the "Grand Imperial Cirque de Paris," with jugglers, unicyclists, clowns, acrobats, and others.

The production will be directed by Michael Lawrence, choreographed by Avalon Bartolini, and conducted by Janet Peters. SET opens its production of Carnival on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, July 31 and August 1, 2, 7, 8, and 9. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

CHOIR ON PUBLIC TV

In Story on Festival. A story entitled "The Backbone of Spoleto," about the Westminster Choir's involvement in the fourth Spoleto Festival U.S.A., will be aired on New Jersey Public Television, channels 50, 52, 23 and 58 Thursday, August 7 at 10:30 p.m.

The choir has participated in the Spoleto Festival U.S.A. in Charleston SC since its inception in 1977 and in the older sister festival, Festival dei Due Mondi in Spoleto, Italy, since 1972. The choir, under the direction of Joseph Flummerfelt, has just returned from four and one-half weeks in Italy. It also gave 17 performances from May 23 to June 8 during the Charleston festival.

ROBERT SHAW HERE

To Lead Choral Workshop. Robert Shaw, dean of American choral conductors, is again in Princeton — at Westminster Choir College.

This is his ninth two-week marathon of rehearsals with 200 professional music makers, which will be climaxed by a performance of the Bruckner "Te Deum," Bernstein "Chichester Psalms" and Verdi "Four Sacred Pieces" at the Temple University Music Festival Saturday at 8 at Ambler, Pa., and a performance of the Haydn "Creation" in Avery Fisher Hall, New York City, as part of the "Mostly Mozart Festival" on Friday, August 8, at 8. Tickets are available for the Temple performance at (215) 235-4600 and for "Mostly Mozart" at (212) 874-6770.

Dr. Ray E. Robinson, president of Westminster Choir College, said: "Robert Shaw's influence in the field of choral literature, in particular the great choral - orchestral works, is truly monumental. As a guest on our campus for the past several years, he has brought a dedication and excitement that rekindle the very fires so important in the growth of Westminster's rich choral tradition."

By Piano Duo. William and Louise Cheadle will play three different recitals from Thursday to Thursday. The recitals at 8 on July 31, August 3, and August 7 will be held in the Playhouse on the campus of Westminster Choir College and are open to the public free.

The Cheadles will again play a premiere written by the masculine half of the team on the Sunday program. The work is a group of vignettes entitled "Diet Duets, Ten Low Calorie Pieces: Determination, Checking the Scales, Half a Grapefruit (No Sugar!), Dream of Thin, Waiting for Lunch, Tossing a Salad, Life of Spice, Raspberry Yogurt, Reflection, and Fiesta Italiana (Surrender!)." Now backache sufferers have a medically proven way to get a good night's sleep.

Introducing the beautiful bed that treats your back seriously.

The Lattoflex Bed.

It keeps your spine straight, no matter how you toss and turn. You get a chance to sleep soundly, wake up feeling truly refreshed.

Common as back problems are, they are never anything less than serious. If you suffer them, your bed should treat your back seriously as well as complement your lifestyle. Until now finding such a bed has been difficult—in America, that is.

Swiss designed, American crafted.

Now the famous Lattoflex bed developed by Swiss orthopedists some 30 years ago is being manufactured here—in limited quantity, to precise Swiss standards.

This scientifically designed bed offers backache sufferers—and people with good backs who want to keep them that way—a genuine opportunity to put their minds as well as their bodies to rest.

You shift, it adjusts.

The Lattoflex bed has long been recommended by doctors in many countries, the United States included. They know a sagging spine can cause aches, muscle strain and disc compression that can rob you of far more than just sleep.

Orthopedists also know this extraordinary bed instantly conforms to your body's contours. No matter how you toss and turn, it keeps your spinal column straight—comfortably, not rigidly.

Sleeping better, your body relaxes more fully. This could relieve tension and anxiety. With your spine properly supported all night, there is little chance of ever again knowing morning stiffness.

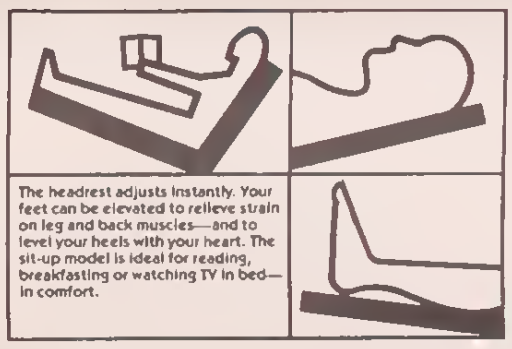
Precision crafted of nine laminated wood layers, Lattoflex twin spring slats are pressed, pretensioned and arched under high pressure—for lasting elasticity and controlled comfort. Mounted on rubber rocker bearings, they move silently the instant you move.

More than a great bed, a great bed system.

The Lattoflex bed is the basis of a complete bed system that can be modified at any time to meet your specific comfort needs. If your back has weak spots, for instance, firmness regulators can be added to help them. There is an adjustable headrest. A shoulder recess assures your comfort even when lying on your side.

The Lattoflex mattress is as special as the bed. Its bacteriostatically treated foam core has alternating support zones and air pockets, to synchronize with the Lattoflex twin spring slats. Its center area is reinforced, for durability as well as comfort.

This fine bed is available in twin, queen and king sizes, complete or to insert in your present bed frame. Meticulously crafted, it is guaranteed 10 years but should last a lifetime.



The headrest adjusts instantly. Your feet can be elevated to relieve strain on leg and back muscles—and to level your heels with your heart. The sit-up model is ideal for reading, breakfasting or watching TV in bed—in comfort.

A rest test is convincing.

Regardless of what we or any satisfied owner says about this exceptional bed—and we could cite medical studies, Swiss government reports, unsolicited testimonials and much more—you will appreciate Lattoflex best only after experiencing it.

Visit your nearest Lattoflex showroom now. Relax on any of several models. We cannot promise your aches and pains will vanish instantly. But in no time you will have a very good idea how this great bed can prove a great comfort—for the rest of your life.

The Lattoflex bed is made to exacting Swiss specifications, and is distributed exclusively in the U.S., by Triform Enterprises Ltd. Hudson, N.Y. 12534.

available to the public some time this fall. Cheadle transcriptions for piano duo (two pianos) and piano duet (one piano, four hands) will be included on all three programs.

Both Cheadles are graduates of the Juilliard School of Music and are on the faculty at Westminster. Mr. Cheadle is an associate professor of piano and Mrs. Cheadle is head of the Westminster Conservatory Division. At the time of the three recitals, they will be participating in a piano workshop for high school students and piano ensemble workshop for teachers and performers held on the Westminster campus.

CONCERTS ALL WEEK

At Choir College. Westminster Choir College has another week of concerts and events of interest to the public, both musician and interested listener. All campus events are free, and no tickets are required.

Sharon Alexander, soprano, and a teacher in Westminster's Conservatory Division, will present a recital of works by German, French and Italian romantic composers this Wednesday at 8 in Bristol Chapel. Her accompanist will be Thomas Purviance.

On Thursday the participants of the Advanced Handbell Workshop under the direction of Robert Ivey, will present an informal concert of handbell music in Bristol Chapel at 7.

William and Louise Cheadle, Westminster's duet pianists, will present two different recitals during the course of the week. Following the Handbell Recital on Thursday, July 31, the Cheadles will perform music for two pianos by a variety of composers from Handel through Mr. Cheadle himself.

On Sunday, the bill will consist of music for one piano, four hands, including the premier performance of Mr. Cheadle's "Diet Duets" composed this year. Both recitals will be in the Playhouse on the Westminster campus, and begin at 8.

On Saturday, the Westminster Summer Choir under the direction of Robert Shaw will present a concert of works for chorus and orchestra by Bruckner, Bernstein and Verdi, as part of the Temple University Music Festival held in Ambler, Pa. The concert, with the Pittsburgh Symphony, will begin at 8. Tickets are $10; further information is available at (215) 235-4600.

Monday night, Erik Routley will direct this week's Hymn Sing at 8. On Tuesday at 8 the Summer Sing will be led by Allen Crowell, conductor of Westminster's Oratorio Choir. The works to be read are the Bach "Magnificat" and Schubert's "Mass in G." Both events will be held in Bristol Chapel.

FOR CHILDREN

Live Theatre. The lass with the very long hair is not the same creature as the hare with the very long ego. So says Street Theatre, in advance publicity for "The Best of Fractured Fairy Fables," opening in August as the annual Children's Production.

The Fables will be re-told--or rather, re-acted--at the Princeton Public Library next Tuesday at 3:30; the Princeton Shopping Center next Thursday (August 7) at 11:30 a.m., with an August 11 rain date; at Riverside School on Thursday, August 21 at 8 p.m.; Maurice Hawk School in West Windsor on Friday, August 22 at 8 p.m., and John Witherspoon School on Saturday, August 23, also at 8.

Admission is free, as always, but donations are gratefully received. Family entertainment.

In "The Best of Fractured Fairy Fables," Street Theatre has a cast of five: Sandra Hoedemaker, Rebecca Kramer, Heidi Martindale, Karen Schleyer and Janine Young.

In addition to following the schedule above, Street Theatre presents its childrens' show at day camps, nursing homes and schools in the Princeton-West Windsor area.

COMEDY PLANNED

At Trenton Theatre. A musical spoof of old movie musicals, "Dames at Sea" will open at Artists Showcase Theatre in Trenton on Saturday. The show is the third and last offering in the Summer Festival, co-sponsored by the theatre and the Shakespeare '70 company, and funded in part by The Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission.

"Dames at Sea" is directed by Gary A. Powell of Plainsboro, who recently starred in and choreographed a production of "South Pacific" which opened the Festival. The producer and scenic designer is Gerald E. Guarnieri of Trenton.

The production features two McCarter Theatre staffers, Sam Rossi and Charles Johnston, in the roles of Dick and Lucky. The pair recently staged the revue "On Broadway" at Showcase. Connie Harcar and Mary Liz Fitzpatrick, both of Pennington, appear as Ruby and Joan.

The role of Mona, the broadway "star," will be played by Mary Ann Esposito, and Bill Ivins of Trenton appears in the dual roles of Hennesy and The Captain. A tap-dancing chorus, trained by Mr. Powell includes Kathie Caprario, Toni Fiumenero, Kathi Gallant, Ellen Gepner, Joanne Montagna and Priscilla Orr.

"Dames at Sea" opens Saturday evening and runs August 8 through 10 and again August 14 through 17. All performances are at 8:30 except Sunday which is at 7:30. For reservations call 392-1704.

SPANISH DANCE

At N.J. State Museum. Spanish dance will be a highlight of the State-wide celebration of Puerto Rican Week when Ballet Hispanico of New York's Young Artist's Company, under the direction of Tina Ramirez, comes to the New Jersey State Museum Auditorium for a 7 p.m. performance this Friday.

Ms. Ramirez, founder-director of New York's Ballet Hispanico, is known to dance followers as a choreographer and dance teacher. Combining the disciplines of classical ballet and the traditions of Hispanic dance, her performances have brought favorable reviews. Drawing most of her performers and students from the Puerto Rican community, she has revitalized an interest in Spanish dance in New York as well as the dance world in general.

Selections from the Ballet Hispanico's repertoire for the Trenton performance will emphasize traditional Spanish dance and costume. Included will be "Caribbean Suite," choreographed by Charles Moore and Ramirez; "Echoes of Spain" by Louis Johnson; "Fiesta en Vera Cruz" by Jose Coronado and "Tanquillo-Tikiti" by Antonio Santaella and Ramirez.

TWO PERFORMANCES SET

Of 'La Sylphide.' The Ballet Workshop will give two performances of "La Sylphide," featuring guest artist Nicholas Cramm of New York City, Friday at the Unitarian Church. Mr. Cramm has also performed with the Lyric Ballet in Chicago.

"La Sylphide," produced in 1832 to a score by Schneitzhoffer, was the first of the great romantic ballets--predating "Giselle" by almost 10 years. Created for the great 19th century ballerina Marie Taglioni, who was the first to rise on the tips of her toes and dance "sur les pointes," it remained her property, and when she left the Bournouville Company, she took the music with her, allowing no one else to use it. Thus Lovenskold was invited to write a new score 50 years later, which is the music used by most companies today.

This Ballet Workshop production is staged to the original Schneitzhoffer score. Set in the highlands of Scotland, the story revolves around James, who is to marry his highland lass Effie, and the mischievous Sylph who lures him away.

The program, which is the result of a six-week summer workshop, will also include a modern piece devised by Laura Gates of the Lar Lubovitch Company in New York City and developed by the dancers themselves. Dancers taking part in the program include Juliet Burrows, Gwendolyn Hanawalt, Jessica Hopfield, Erika Naginski, Rosalind Westlake, Margaret Brower, Gina Clemens, and Lauri Ervin, Sharron Bolen, Daphne Kliminski, Sabrina Kappler, Esther Lependorf, Richard Wehby and Kyra Umanoff.

For further information on tickets and times call 921-6271 or 921-1091.

'MAN OF LA MANCHA'

At New Hope Playhouse. "Man Of La Mancha," the musical based on Miguel de Cervantes tale of Don Quixote, is the current show at Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope, Pa. from this Wednesday through August 10.

In the New Hope production, the role of Don Quixote, knight errant of La Mancha, is played by Bob Bolsover, who just concluded three weeks at the Playhouse as Tevye in "Fiddler On The Roof." Geraldine Tallone is the fiery Aldonza, the slut who becomes a true lady in the light of Quixote's illusions about her.

Ralph Miller, who has held the lead in "Jesus Christ, Superstar," plays Sancho Panza, the simple-minded squire and friend of Quixote. Kris Rich plays the young niece; Lori Martin, the housekeeper; Newton Gilchrist, the Padre; and Paula Mathews is the dancer, Fermina. Mitch Graff plays the Innkeeper and Arthur Hochman portrays the Barber. David Whiteman plays the villainous, illusion-shattering Knight of the Mirrors. The show is directed by Mitchell Graff.

Some of the more memorable songs from "Man Of La Mancha" include "Dulcinea," "I Really Like Him," "The Golden Helmet Of Mambrino," "Little Bird, Little Bird," and "The Impossible Dream."

For further information regarding performance times, group sales, and availability of tickets, call the Playhouse box-office (215) 862-2041.

SEASON ANNOUNCED

Opera Auditions This Week. The board of the Trenton Civic Opera Company has announced the 1980-81 season in the War Memorial Auditorium in Trenton.

This season, the second for the company, will begin in October with "I Pagliacci" (The Clowns) and an abbreviated version of "The Nutcracker" ballet. Two more performances in the spring will include "The Sound of Music" in March and "Madame Butterfly" in May. All three performances have been planned for Sunday afternoons at 5 so that children may have the opportunity to attend.

Season tickets are now on sale, with all three performances for the price of two, $10, $15, and $20. Individual tickets will be $5, $7.50, and $10. Subscriptions may be obtained by writing Trenton Civic Opera Company, 2685 Princeton Pike, Trenton, 08648.

Audutions for "I Pagliacci" will be held at Artists Showcase Theatre, 1150 Indiana Avenue, near the Brunswick Circle this Wednesday at 6 and Sunday at 5. All parts are open as well as chorus.

NEW PLAYHOUSE OPENS

With Boxing Drama. "Knockout," a hard-driving prizefight drama by Hoboken playwright Louis LaRusso, is the first performance by the Franklin Villagers in their new Barn Theatre.

A 1940's kind of boxing melodrama that mixes sentiment with guts, "Knockout" is directed by Tony Adase of Edison and includes Frank Megna of Princeton in the cast of pugs and dames of the seedy River Street Recreation Center.

"Knockout" plays Friday and Saturday at 8:30 and Sunday at 7:30 through August 10 in the Franklin Villagers' new air-conditioned theatre located behind the Franklin Township municipal building off DeMott Lane. Tickets are $5.50 on Friday and Sunday, $6.50 on Saturday. Reservations may be made by calling (201) 873-2710.

Because of its adult story line and language, the Villagers' management recommends "Knockout" for mature audiences.

around the kitchen, but nothing else appears to have been taken. Value of the items was placed at $5 by the owner. Entry was gained by first cutting a screen and then forcing open a front window.

$800 Pin Stolen. An 18K gold Tiffany pin, a mouse with ruby eyes, holding a turquoise nut, valued at $800 was taken from a Lawrenceville Road home. Also, a pair of pearl earrings ($35), a pair of hammered gold earrings ($35) and some personal blank checks were missing.

Police said that the intruder apparently climbed an outside structure and entered through a side balcony. Det. Frank Boccanfuso and Ptl. Peter Savalli are investigating.

A Princeton-Kingston Road home was entered between 6:45 Friday morning and 7:30 the next by a thief who first broke a pane of glass to open a rear kitchen door.

The first floor was ransacked; a jewelry box and dresser drawers of a master bedroom were also searched, and a piggy bank found on the floor had been emptied. Police report that they don't know what else may be missing.

An eight-piece setting of sterling silver and 50 Susan B. Anthony dollars were stolen Monday from a Carnegie Drive home. Police say that they have not received a value of the silver flatware.

The home was entered — between 10:30 a.m. and 8:15 p.m. — by ripping a screen and forcing a rear window.

A Lexington, Va., resident lost $50 last week when his room at the Princeton Inn was entered. The victim said that the money had been in a plastic shoeshine kit in a cardboard box inside a clothes locker. There were no signs of forced entry, and nothing else was taken.

The lone entry reported by Borough police took place Monday at Princeton High School.

Police said that a temporary door on the west side near the library had been removed to enter the supply room of the old boys' gymnasium. Taken were hand tools valued at $200 owned by the Rule Construction of New Brunswick. Two cups full of pennies were also taken from a custodial supply room.

Jury Selection Changes

If you haven't registered to vote because you didn't want to be called for jury duty—and in the past, juries have been chosen from voter-registration lists--your lazy years are over.

As of July 3, juries in New Jersey are being chosen from a combined list of registered voters—and licensed drivers. This means a jump in the number of potential jurors from 3.5 million to 5 million. It also means that people serving on juries will be chosen from a broader, more representative sample of the community as a whole. And, of course, it means that any one individual is less likely than before to be summoned for jury duty.

Secretary of State Donald Lan estimates that 1.5 million licensed drivers in New Jersey haven't registered to vote. About 270,000 of these may not have registered because they know the connection between voter registration and jury selection, he said.

"New Jerseyans who drive can no longer avoid jury duty by not registering to vote," Mr. Lan declared, "It is no longer possible to avoid one civic duty by foresaking another."

EXTRA MEETING SET

By Township Committee. Township Committee will hold a special meeting this Wednesday at 8 in Township Hall to clear up loose ends before its members go off on their vacations.

There will be no meetings in August because not enough Committee members will be around to make up a quorum on any of the first three Wednesdays in the month that are the regularly scheduled meetings.

Committee will consider a request from Abraham and Lucille Fuchs of 7 Balsam Lane that smoking be banned at meetings. In a letter to Committee, Mr. and Mrs. Fuchs note that steps are being taken to provide greater access by the physically handicapped to pubtic meetings. They ask that those who suffer from emphysema and asthma also not be banned from meetings because of the barrier of cigarette smoke.

An ordinance appropriating $3,400 to reconstruct the recycling shed in the shopping center will be introduced. The shed was largely designed by Betty Jablonsky, Township Building Code Official who formerly worked in the Engineer's Office, and will be built of cinder block as a deterrent to fires such as the one that levelled the old shed. The building will be somewhat bigger than the previous one and will have three garage-type overhead doors.

The cost was estimated at $4,740.91, but with labor provided by the Public Works Department that figure has been reduced $1,600. The Police Department has agreed to an 8.5 percent increase in salary over last year, which will be reflected in an amendment also to be introduced Wednesday.

Committee is also ready to introduce an ordinance setting forth regulations concerning the holding of special events like marathons and jogathons on Township roads. Sponsoring organizations will be required to get a permit for the event and reimburse the Township for additional expenses incurred for police protection and traffic control

In its work session, Committee will review a request from Dr. Arnold Hirsh of 211 North Harrison Street to rezone the vacant lot at the corner of Valley Road and Harrison Street to permit a mixed office-residential use.

An application by Dr. Hirsh for a use variance to permit him to build an office building with apartments above was denied by the Township Zoning Board. Dr. Hirsh is appealing that decision to Township Committee.

THEFT REPORT

Canoe, Pram Stolen. A $500 canoe and a $400 pram were stolen last week in the Township.

The canoe, a 10-foot fibreglas model, had been chained to a tree at the rear of Hibben Apartments where the owner resided. Police said that it appeared the chain had been cut with a bolt cutter.

The 10-foot aluminum pram was owned by a 16-year old Hemlock Circle resident. He had lent it to two other youths to use on Carnegie Lake. When they had finished with it, they secured the pram in woods behind Philip Drive. Returning the next day, they discovered it missing.

A 35mm camera with a 105 mm lens was stolen last week from Murray Dodge Theater on the university campus. Police report the camera had been left on a tripod on the stage for an hour during a lunch break. It was valued at $500 to $600.

Six sheets of plywood, 24 2-by-4s, five 4-foot boards and reinforcing wire with a combined value of $249 were stolen last week from a construction site on Lambert Drive. They had been left unattended. The theft was reported in the morning by the contractor, Willis Hancock of Hightstown.

A Honda mini-bike valued at $450 was stolen early last week from a Randall Road garage. It had been locked to a wooden cross member, which police said was taken with the bike.

In another theft early in the week in the Borough, a girl's 10-speed bicycle was removed from a Mercer Street garage. It was valued by the owner at $400.

A bottle of wine was believed stolen from inside a front display window at Nassau Liquors, 94-86 Nassau Street. Police responding to a Thursday morning alarm at 1:04, found the lower right corner of the eight-foot square window broken out. Replacement cost: $400.

Two sets of socket and open-end wrenches valued at $200 were stolen between 7 Friday night and 11:15 the next morning from an unlocked car while it was parked in the drive of its owner on Braeburn Drive.

A New York resident listed the theft of a $40 battery from his car while it was parked during a 16-day period in a rear lot at the Quadrangle Club on Prospect Avenue.

An employee of Expressions in the Princeton Shopping Center had her red leather wallet stolen from an area behind the cash register between 12:15 and 12:45 Thursday. She told police that she was the only employee in the store at the time. Inside the wallet, valued at $15, were $24 cash, credit cards and personal papers.

Two days later, the owner of the Feedbag Restaurant in the Shopping Center called to report that the wallet had been found in a wastebasket in the men's room. The credit cards and personal papers were intact but the money was missing.

A Township resident reported the theft of his wallet from a bag on his bicycle which he had left in a hallway near the new guidance room in Princeton High School. The wallet was valued at $10. It contained 35 cents.

DATE ANNOUNCED

For Rocky Hill Event. The Rocky Hill Community Group has announced that its annual Bid 'n' Buy celebration will be held this year on Saturday, October 4.

The focus of the festival is different from that of previous years, according to advance publicity. Under the big tent instead of the auction, will be a giant flea market-white elephant sale, combined with book sales. There will be food, games, square dancing and two marathons, a run-for-fun and a mini-marathon. Craft demonstrations and an art show are also being considered.

Proceeds from the event will go to extend the Mary Jacobs Library and to other ongoing Community Group projects. Chairmen of the various activities will be announced shortly.

The Rocky Hill Community Group will welcome donations of items and offers of volunteer help. LaVerne Hebert, 924-4664, Pat Cross, 921-6721, and Carol Henderson, 924-3858, are co-chairmen of the Bid 'n' Buy.

AUTO SHOW PLANNED

In New Hope. The 1980 New Hope Auto Show will be held Saturday and Sunday, August 9 and 10, with approximately 2,000 cars on display for both days.

The Country Fair will also display wares of many types, ranging from dried arrangements to hand painted T-shirts, skirts and hand bags, hats, handmade dolls and jewelry and antique items. There is also an automotive flea market. Model cars are another attraction at the show, with entrants showing their handmade cars and competing for trophies.

Admission to the show is by donation to the New Hope-Solebury Community Association, sponsors of the event. Adult donation is $3 each day and children under 12 are free if accompanied by their parents. Admission for senior citizens is $2 each day. Show grounds are open from 10 til 5 at the New Hope-Solebury High School, Route 179 just past 202 in New Hope.

DINNER PLANNED

By Mootgomery Squad. The Montgomery Township First Aid Squad will hold its annual "all you can eat" chicken barbecue dinner on Sunday from noon to 6 in the air conditioned squad building on Harlingen Road off Route 206.

The menu will include corn on the cob picked that morning, home-made potato salad and cole slaw, tossed salad, cranberry sauce, pickled beets, fresh rolls and barbecued chicken. The beverages will be coffee and tea, and for dessert, watermelon and ice cream.

Take-out dinners are available for those who wish to eat at home. Tickets are $6 for adults and $3.50 for children under 12. Children under three eat for free.

For tickets or more information call 359-8494 or 359-3952. All proceeds will go to the Montgomery Township First Aid Squad.

52ND REUNION PLANNED

By Stout Family. The 52nd annual Stout Family Reunion of descendants of Richard and Penelope Stout, early New Jersey settlers, will be held on Saturday, August 9, at the Middletown Reformed Church, 123 Kings Highway, Middletown, Monmouth County. This is the area where Penelope and Richard settled in 1665.

The day's events will begin at 10 with registration. A catered luncheon will be served at noon. Speakers of the day are Councilman Robert Schoeffling, official historian for Atlantic Highlands, and his associate historian Mr. Myers, who will give relevant facts pertaining to the Stouts in Monmouth County.

At 3 there will be a short journey to the Spy House Museum complex where the Penelope Stout Museum of the Crafts of Man will be dedicated.

The Stout Family Association welcomes any descendant of Richard and Penelope, and encourages those who aren't sure of their ancestry to come view the many geneology charts to identify their branch of the family.

PROFICIENCY EXAMS SET

For College Credit. Statewide college proficiency exams have been scheduled by Thomas A. Edison College, the New Jersey State College for External Degrees, for Saturday, October 4. These examinations are offered to any individual who wishes to receive college credits for demonstrated college-level learning. One need not be enrolled in Edison College or any other college to take the exams.

The Thomas Edisoo College Examination Program (TECEP) has been developed by the College to support its degree programs as well as to offer individuals the opportunity to earn credit for experiential learning.

Business, liberal arts, and professional area examinations will be offered October 4 at Rider College in Lawrenceville, as well as secretarial science examinations.

Application deadlines are August 29 (out-of-state) and September 5, (New Jersey residents). Persons interested in applying for the examinations should write or call the Registrar's Office, Thomas A. Edison College, 101 West State Street, Trenton, NJ 08625, 924-1170.

Cost of the examinations vary with credit value. Examinations valued up to three semester hours are $40 ($60 out-of-state) with those valued from four to six semester hours set at $55 ($75 out-of-state).

Edison College will offer all TECEP examinations (except foreign languages and secretarial sciences) on November 1, and December 6, at its Trenton headquarters. The next statewide administration of all TECEP examinations will be February 7, 1981.

One of New Jersey's nine state colleges, Edison College is the State's only external degree institution. The fully accredited college offers no instruction but is authorized by the New Jersey State Board of Higher Education to grant credits and award degrees. Students meet degree requirements through college equivalency examinations, individual assessment of college-level learning, and the transfer of previously earned credit.

WEDNESDAYS PLANNED

positive evaluations of "excellent" or "good." Twice as many--42 percent--said the President was doing a "poor" job, while 35 percent thought Carter was doing a "fair" job.

New Jerseyans' evaluations of Carter have declined steadily through the first half of the year. In February, negative evaluations of fair or poor outnumbered positive ones by a margin of 56 to 44 percent. The margin of negative to positive ratings had increased to 69 to 30 percent in May; and further increased to the June figures of 77 percent negative to 21 percent positive.

Poll Director Cliff Zukin commented, "Most New Jerseyans clearly do not think Carter has been a competent President. However, going into the election they will have to evaluate Carter relative to Reagan and Anderson. In that contest he will probably be seen as a stronger candidate than he is as a President."

The latest survey showed a significant erosion of Carter's base of support among Democrats in the state. Negative evaluations from Democrats went from 55 percent in May to 68 percent in June, while positive comments dropped from 44 to 29 percent. Among Independents, negative ratings outnumbered positive ones by a margin of 78 to 21 percent. This was basically unchanged from May.

Negative evaluations of Carter's performance from New Jersey Republicans have also increased. Where negative comments outnumbered positive ones by 3 to 1 in May (74 to 25 percent), Republicans now evaluate Carter negatively by a margin of 9 to 1 (89 to 10 percent).

The latest Eagleton Poll was conducted between June 9 and 17, when a scientifically selected random sample of 1,005 New Jerseyans, 18 years and older, was interviewed by telephone.

T. Dennis Sullivan II of Glen View Drive has been appointed deputy commissioner of the Department of Labor and Industry. Mr. Sullivan, currently assistant to the president of Princeton University and former chief financial officer of the City of Newark, will begin his new duties on September 1. He succeeds Joan H. Wiskowski, who has been named by Governor Byrne as director of the Division of Motor Vehicles.

Mr. Sullivan will oversee all operations of the Department and will concentrate initially on operations concerning the Labor and Industry Department's Division of Economic Development and matters involving small businesses and related industrial development.

Mr. Sullivan, who is 31, has served as assistant to President Bowen at Princeton since June, 1977. He was director of finance and custodian of school monies for the City of Newark from November, 1975 until taking the Princeton assignment. He also served as executive assistant to Mayor Kenneth A. Gibson of Newark and was principal program associate in the office of Governor Hugh Carey of New York for six months.

As chief financial officer of the City of Newark from 1973-75, he was directly responsible for the supervision of some 200 employees in seven financial divisions. He also was responsible for preparation of all revenue estimates involving a municipal budget of nearly $200 million. He is a 1970 graduate of Princeton and has a master's degree in economics and history.

David Paige of Pennington got his internship with Congressman Jim Courter's (R,13-NJ) office by a "mailing blitz" to New Jersey senators, congressmen, and state assemblymen. "I really didn't have any inside contacts," Mr. Paige commented. "Experience and persistence got me the job more than anything else." He is a journalism major in his senior year at Syracuse University, New York.

As a reporter and photographer for a weekly newspaper, "The Hopewell Valley News," Mr. Paige covered township committees, the school board, borough councils, and other local news. He met Courter while doing a feature story for the paper.

In addition, Mr. Paige's past experience includes an intern position at the New Jersey Public Advocate's Office of Citizen Complaints, which investigates the activities of departments of the state government. His work load, which included case work, research, and hotline information and referrals, prepared him for an internship in a congressional office where interns participate in every phase of the daily work flow.

Alicia Nowicki

The Capitol Hill program attempts to familierize the student with areas such as constituent aervice, legislative research and correspondence, and liaison work with different state and local offices. In this way, a person can experience the operation of the legislative branch of government first hand. Interns may also attend lectures given by government officials and other notable speakers. "The best way to learn is by doing. This is a good program, and I'm very lucky to be here in Washington working with Congressman Courter and his staff this summer," Mr. Paige said.

The Pennington School has announced that Alicia Nowicki is the recipient of the 1980-81 Lionel R. Driscoll Merit Scholarship. The annual scholarship–founded last year in honor of the late Rev. Dr. Driscoll, an alumnus and board member of the School–is awarded on the basis of academic and personal merit. The winner receives a full day-student's tuition to The Pennington School for one academic year.

Miss Nowicki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester M. Nowicki of Goat Hill Road, Lambertville, was selected from more than 45 contestants. She has been a straight A student at South Hunterdon Regional High School for the past two years, where she participated in the Academically Talented Program. She will enter the 9th grade at The Pennington School in the fall.

In addition to her academic involvements, Alicia plays the piano, sings in the chorus and enjoys basketball, tennis, and running.

CARE OF STORM DAMAGED TREES

with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

In the wake of last week's devastating storm, WOODWINDS advises homeowners to begin repairing their fractured trees at once!

All hangers or broken branches should be removed. Trace areas of torn bark to promote healing this means cutting with a sharp knife all torn or loose bark in an oval or round shape to the outer edge of damage. The tree will then, with subsequent growth, heal over the wound

While pruning, re-shape damaged trees to their natural symmetry, long branches can be trimmed to alleviate excess weight, and weak limbs should be cabled and braced to protect against similar storm conditions in the months ahead Proper pruning will throw new strength into the remaining parts of the tree

Not all storm damage is apparent to the naked eye...Roots may have been wrenched and torn, there may be cracks in the bark of smaller branches and twigs which then become invasion points for fungi.

In order to revitalize the storm-battered tree, and as an aid in the tree's own sealing and healing process, feed as soon as possible This way, the tree is prepared to withstand the future storms and also avoid destructive insects and fungi which are quick to take advantage of weakness

WOODWINDS is happy to answer any question concerning your valuable trees and shrubs. Please call us at 924-3500

Byrne Well Known in State, But Who Are Bradley and Williams?

While most New Jerseyans could name Brendan Byrne as their Governor, more state residents could name the Governor of New York than their own U.S. Senators. This final report in a series devoted to New Jersey's Image focuses on Garden State resident's political knowledge of their state.

In June, the Rutgers-based Poll asked 1,005 state residents several factual questions about government in New Jersey as well as about neighboring New York and Pennsylvania. On the positive side the Poll found:

• About 9 out of 10 New Jerseyans named Brendan Byrne as New Jersey's Governor.

• Four out of 5 state residents knew that Governor Byrne is a Democrat.

• About 3 out of 5 could identify the Democrats as the party having the majority of seats in the New Jersey Legislature.

On the negative side the Poll found:

• Only 1 out of 3 of those contacted could name Harrison Williams as a U.S. Senator from New Jersey.

• Also 1 out of 4 could name Bill Bradley as a U.S. Senator from New Jersey.

By comparison the Poll found:

• One out of 2 could name Hugh Carey as the Governor of New York.

• One out of 10 could name Richard Thornburg as the Governor of Pennsylvania.

It is not surprising that 87 percent of New Jerseyans could name Brendan Byrne as Governor. New Jersey's Governor is the only statewide elected official and Byrne has held the position since 1973.

However. Harrison Williams, New Jersey's senior U.S. Senator has been representing the state in Washington since 1958 and just a third of those interviewed could name him. Williams' recognition has improved somewhat as his years of service have increased. In a 1978 poll 27 percent named him as a U.S. Senator and in 1972 24 percent named him.

Bill Who? Bill Bradley, New Jersey's junior U.S. Senator was named by only 25 percent of those he represents. However, a large majority of those interviewed--59 percent--could not name either of New Jersey's U.S. Senators. Bradley may have been better known when he was an All-American basketball player here and later with the New York Knicks.

Hugh Carey, Governor of New York is better known to New Jerseyans than their U.S. Senators. Carey was correctly named by 49 percent of those polled. New Jersey's other neighboring Governor, Richard Thornburg of Pennsylvania, was named by just 12 percent of New Jersey residents.

"In national surveys about 59 percent of those interviewed can name at least one of their state's U.S. Senators," noted Janice Ballou, Associate Director of the Eagleton Poll. "In comparison, New Jerseyans are considerably less knowledgeable about their U.S. Senators.

State government continues to be the level of politics followed least closely by state residents. While 41 percent of those interviewed said they followed national government and politics, 21 percent named local, 14 percent said international and just nine percent responded that they followed state politics and government most closely.

Interest in state politics has declined somewhat from the 14 percent who reported following state politics in May 1977 and is much lower than the 19 percent in May 1976 and the 17 percent reported in a March 1975 survey.

"It is not unusual that few Jerseyan's follow state politics. National surveys have continually found that state politics is the least interesting to citizens," commented Ballou. "Unless a state has a controversial issue--such as the tax question in New Jersey in 1975 and 1976--or a statewide election, most state residents focus their political attention on the more visible national concerns."

Source of News. Knowledge of state officials was more likely among those who use newspapers as their source of information about New Jersey. While 92 percent of those who use newspapers could name Brendan Byrne as Governor, 78 percent of the television viewers named him.

Williams was named by 39 percent and Bradley by 31 percent of those who rely on newspapers for state news compared to a smaller 18 percent of those who use television naming Williams and 16 percent naming Bradley.

Byrne, Bradley and Williams were correctly named more frequently by those with more than a high school education and those whose total annual family income exceeded $20,000. In addition, whites were more likely than non-whites and males more likely than females to be able to name the three New Jersey officials.

Governor Hugh Carey was more likely to be oamed by northern (62 percent) than central (52 percent) or southern (22 percent) New Jerseyans. Those who read New York newspapers (71 percent) and who watch New York television (62 percent) named the New Yorker more frequently. In comparison, south Jerseyans were more likely to name Thornburg correctly as the Pennsylvania Governor--32 percent--compared to 11 percent of those in central and just 2 percent in north Jersey. Also more Philadelphia TV viewers (30 percent) and Pennsylvania newspaper readers (52 percent) named Thornburg.

Majority in State Believe Tax Bite Bigger Here

A majority of New Jerseyans still feel they are being taxed more than citizens of other states. In addition, the latest Eagleton Poll found that 2 out of 3 Garden State residents do not think they are getting their money's worth for the state and local taxes they pay.

The Rutgers-based Poll, in a survey conducted between June 9 and 17, asked 1,005 New Jerseyans to compare their overall state and local taxes with taxes in other states. Half--50 percent-- felt they paid more in taxes, while 26 percent said they paid about the same amount as people in other states, and 11 percent felt they paid less. Thirteen percent said they did not know. These figures are unchanged from a Poll conducted three years ago.

However, in a February 1972 survey, before the state income tax package was passed, only 37 percent of state residents said they thought New Jerseyans' overall tax bill was more than that of residents of other states.

When asked to compare property taxes in New Jersey to other states, a majority--55 percent--thought they were paying more; 20 percent said "the same," and nine percent felt they were paying less. Sixteen percent offered no opinion.

While state residents feel they pay more property taxes than people in other states, they feel less strongly about this now than in the recent past. Polls conducted in October 1978 and May 1977 found about two-thirds (65 percent and 63 percent respectively) feeling that despite the property tax relief promised in the state income tax package they had higher property tax bills than homeowners in other states.

"New Jerseyans fought the property tax-state income tax battle in 1976 when it was a major state issue. Today the state income tax and its consequences--the exchange of property tax relief for higher overall taxes--are part of the New Jersey taxpayer's way of life. The trends in the poll results show that more New Jerseyans are conscious of the property tax relief that occurred when the state income tax package was passed," said Janice Ballou, Associate Director of the Eagleton Poll.

Too Much for Too Little. New Jerseyans continue to have questions about how their tax money is being spent. Most of those polled--67 percent--felt that they "pay too much for what they get" in state and local taxes. However, there is a noticeable shift from May 1977 when 80 percent felt this way. The June poll showed 25 percent who said they were getting their money's worth, compared to only 15 percent who felt this way in 1977.

"Historically citizens feel overtaxed and underserviced," commented Ballou. "However, with the enactment of the state income tax in New Jersey, state residents have seen visible shifts in their taxation. A property tax rebate check is a very concrete reminder that there have been efforts to equalize the tax-service balance in New Jersey."

Homeowners were more likely than renters to feel they were paying more overall taxes than residents of other states. Fifty-four percent of homeowners felt they were paying more taxes compared to 43 percent of the renters. Interestingly, state residents who have lived in New Jersey ten years or less were relatively more satisfied with their tax burdens. Twenty-one percent of newer state residents felt the overall tax bill of New Jerseyans was less than that of residents of other states, compared to eight percent of those who had lived in the state 11 years or more and seven percent of those who have been New Jerseyans all their lives.

VOLUNTEER AID GIVEN

By Stuart Girls. Volunteers from Stuart Country Day School have been contributing their talents to the Martin House summer program. Martin House, a community center located on East State Street in Trenton, is sponsoring the summer program for 60 Trenton children ages 6 to 11 through August 1.

The Rev. Brian McCormick, director of Martin House, enlisted Sr. Lorette Piper, a teacher at Stuart, as director of the summer activities. She in turn is assisted by Sr. Maureen O'Halloran. The headmistress of Stuart, Sr. Joan Magnetti, is also participating by telling stories to the young people. Stuart students are helping with sports and games, dancing and creative movement, arts and crafts, nature study, singing, and other special activities.

The Stuart girls who are volunteering their services are Marie Casale, Lynn Lamelza. Maggie Mahboubian (Class of '80), JoAnne Solomon, and Koren Thanner. For some of them, their participation will be considered as part of their community service, a Stuart program that is an integral part of the school's curriculum.

FACILITIES LISTED

For Recreation In County. Some of the best recreational facilities in the state are less than a ½ gallon of gas away. Some even have Mercer Metro buses going right by them.

These areas are the parks and recreation facilities of the Mercer County Park Commission, where there are family picnic areas, fishing, nature trails, jogging, play areas, boating, and acres of open land.

"Our facilities are open to county individuals, families and groups," explained Commission executive director Stella Jascott. "We have printed information available listing the location of all of our facilities, and we are pleased to answer any questions over the telephone.

Golfers will enjoy the Princeton Country Club, located one block off Route 1 in West Windsor Township. The rolling hills and tree-lined fairways of the Mountain View Golf Course in Ewing are located by Route 95-295. Lessons are available at both courses for the beginner.

Rosedale Park, scenic Belle Mountain, secluded Roebling Park and the near-isolated Herrontown Woods Arboretum all offer a variety of nature trails and beautiful scenery.

The 478-acre Rosedale Park, located in the hills of Hopewell, offers fishing, boating and picnicking. Fishermen, sunfish sailboaters and canoeists find the 38-acre Rosedale Lake especially convenient for quick outings.

John A. Roebling Park in Hamilton Township is a bird watcher's paradise--especially during the migratory seasons. The 257-acre park features a fresh water marsh, an 18-acre lake, and the historic Watson House, the oldest house in Mercer County. Built in 1709, the Watson House is now a museum with many pre-American Revolution artifacts.

The sloping family picnic area of Belle Mountain offers a cool, secluded area to the picnicker, and Belle Mountain Pond is a favorite fishing spot. Princeton's Herrontown Woods, once the grounds and home of Oscar Veblen, is an arboretum which provides a lot of shade from the summer heat to those interested in forest trails.

The Park Commission also offers county residents the boat launch off Route 29 in Trenton, just south of Lalor Street. For more information regarding Mercer County Park Commission facilities, call Commission offices at 980-7530.

The Park Commission will issue temporary horseback riding permits for Rosedale Park at the park's picnic area on Saturday from 11-noon. Proof of residency will be required. Youngsters who do not have a driver's license must be accompanied by a parent.

The temporary permits are required for riding in Rosedale Park. Riding guidelines will also be distributed by Park Commission naturalist Joseph Schmeltz. Applications are also available during the week at the Park Commission office.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to You by John Bernard

What famous big league baseball game was, oddly enough, decided by a great FOOTBALL player? ... It was one of the most unusual baseball games ever seen ... It was played between the Reds and Cubs on May 2, 1917 ... It's the only game in major league history when BOTH starting pitchers pitched a no-hitter for 9 innings ...

This double no-hitter was hurled by Fred Toney of the Reds and Hippo Vaughn of the Cubs ... After 9 innings of no hits by either team, the Reds got 2 hits and scored the only run of the game in the top of the 10th -- and the winning run was driven in by Jim Thorpe, who's been called the greatest football player of all-time ... Thorpe was playing big league baseball that summer and his hit decided this unique baseball game.

I bet you didn't know ... that many health insurance plans including Blue Cross-Blue Shield do not cover children after they reach 19 years old.

Who was the oldest man ever to be a world champion in boxing? ... The record was set by Archie Moore who was the light-heavyweight champion of the world in 1961 at the age of 48.

How times have changed ... When one of the greatest pitchers of all-time -- Bob Feller -- signed his first contract to play major league baseball, in 1937, his bonus for signing was a one-dollar bill and an autographed baseball!

Post 76 Loses Three of Last Four Contests To Finish Disappointing Season at 7-19-1

Princeton Post 76 ended its Mercer County American Legion season last week by losing three of four games--a disappointing ratio it had maintained throughout the season. Post 76 wound up with a 7-19-1 record--far out of contention for one of the five playoff berths.

"We didn't finish too well," concurred third-year coach Pete Millington, "but I have to believe we have the nucleus of a team coming back next year."

Millington expects to welcome back some 14 players to fill his 18-member squad. He loses only regular second baseman Mark Adams and little-used Scott Stebbins to the 18-year cutoff limit.

"Every position will be cared for by a player coming back," said Millington, but he added, "some attitudes have to be changed. I'm sure of that. We've got to have more team discipline."

Millington has numbers and hitting. His only reservation about next year is the pitching. "The pitchers are going to have to turn it around and I think we can."

That and the need to be "more of a team. I'm not sure everyone practiced as hard as they could although some did give 100 percent," said Millington.

Lose Finat Game, 14-0. Millington had hoped to play the role of spoiler during the last week of the campaign. Instead his team went out with a whimper. In Sunday's finale against Lawrence, Post 76 was crushed, 14-0. "We didn't do anything right," said Millington.

Winning pitcher Bobby Krepp increased his record to 7-3, while holding Princeton to five hits. His counterpart, Scott Webber lost his sixth without a win. Lawrence, which finished fourth in the league, scored in six of the nine innings.

The previous day, Hamilton Post 31 had clinched the Legion regular season championship at the expense of Princeton with an 8-2 win. Steve White, the winning pitcher, struck out 13; Frank Whittaker, the first of three Princeton hurlers, took the loss.

Princeton had taken a 2-1 lead in the fifth inning when Tom Scibetta doubled home two runs, but Hamilton came right back in its half, scoring three runs without a hit.

Two walks and a hit batter loaded the bases. When Whittaker walked in the tying run, Millington called on Andy Kulinski who uncorked a wild pitch, allowing another run to score. The third run came in on a fielder's choice. Hamilton (20-6) sealed it with four runs in the eighth.

Trenton's Turn. Trenton scored five runs in the last inning on Thursday to take a 12-6 decision, as Joe Beczo won his sixth. It was the 28th Legion win for Beczo in his three-year career.

Princeton's leading hitter, John Kandell solved Beczo for three hits, including a double. Keith Phox had two hits and Chris Nolan a triple, as they combined for six of Princeton's nine hits. Judd Petrone drove in two runs in fourth when Princeton scored five runs. John Majorwicz was the losing pitcher.

Petrone Standout. Princeton had begun the week by stunning second-place Bordentown, 4-1, in a rain-shortened (5 inning) contest. The game belonged to Judd Petrone.

On the mound he limited Bordentown to four hits and one run; at the plate he banged out two hits, including a triple that ignited a three-run rally in the fourth. "Petrone played very well; he did a nice job," agreed Millington.

After Petrone tripled, Phox singled him home with the winning run. Princeton added two insurance runs on a throwing error by Bordentown catcher Herm Rinaldi and Tim Hunt's sacrifice fly.

Chris Nolan had two hits for the victors who, by winning, captured the season series from Bordentown, 2-1.

The Legion playoff tournament among the top five teams begins this Wednesday. A team has to lose twice before it is eliminated.

SOFTBALL TITLE WON

By Conte's Bar. Conte's Bar clinched first place in the Princeton Women's Slow Pitch Softball League last week with an extra-inning, come-from-behind 12-7 victory over Koffee Kup. With one week to play, Conte's has a 12-1 record, while second-place Koffee Kup is two games behind at 10-3.

Conte's jumped to a 4-0 lead in the first on hits by Laine Ivan, Dee Pearce, Cathy Burroughs, Missy Dungan, Mary Ann Cook and Nancy Laughlin. The Kup got to winning pitcher Cathy Burroughs for a pair of runs in the third on a triple by Spring Taylor and hits by Jaime Edwards, pitcher Hester Phox, who was 3-for-4 overall, and Judi Grisham.

After Conte's had gone ahead, 7-2, on consecutive hits by Claire Johnston, Carol Ann Mazzella, Ivan and Pearce in the fourth, Kup came right back with three in the fifth and tied it at 7 in the seventh on hits by Grisham, Lisa Yates, both of whom had three hits for the day, and Joanne Rice.

Conte's was not to be denied the league crown, however. It sent five runs across in the eighth off the hitting of Mazzella (4-for-5), Ivan (4-for-5), Pearce (5-for-5), Hallie Staub and Burroughs. Burroughs yielded a leadoff single in the eighth, but then set the Kup side down in order to seal the win.

Mike's Tavern blasted the playoff hopes of Ivy Inn with a 20-3 massacre, the game halted after the sixth inning when the 15-run rule was invoked. Mike's scored five runs in the second and fifth innings and added six more in the sixth.

Leading the attack for Mike's were Pam Berntsen (4-for-5), Maureen Merrigan (3-Pope and Marilyn Stevens. Joan Modzelewski got the win.

Laura Decker and Heidi Kappes each had three hits for Ivy Inn.

Yamasaki Swim Club clinched a playoff berth by defeating Rusty Scupper, 7-1, on a six-hitter by Ree Smurthwaite.

The victors broke open a 2-1 defensive contest with five runs in the fifth on hits by Karen Petruska, Maureen Nosal, Susan Packer and Lisa Jablonski. Joann Hoover had two of the six hits by the Scupper, which dropped its thirteenth straight contest.

In a fourth game, Andy's Tavern received its second consecutive forfeit win from the Diplomats, who have dropped out of the league.

In final regular season games this Wednesday at 6:15 at Community Park, Rusty Scupper vs. Mike's Tavern; Conte's Bar vs. Yamasaki Swim Team; and Ivy Inn vs. Andy's Tavern. Koffee Kup will get a forfeit from Diplomats.

University's Forrestal Development Experiencing Steady Growth on Its 1600-Acre Site Off Route 1

Five years ago--amidst much hoopla--construction began on another office building on Route 1, just north of Forrestal Road. The building, the headquarters of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, was billed as the cornerstone of a massive office-research-commercial-residential development being planned by Princeton University on 1,604 acres it owned in the area surrounding the James Forrestal Campus and the Plasma Physics Laboratory there.

Since that groundbreaking, the Johnson building has been erected, and an impressive sign proclaiming the existence of the Princeton Forrestal Center has been installed at the College Road East exit off Route 1. Apart from that work, motorists driving down Route 1 can see no other evidence of the highly publicized Forrestal development.

What progress has the University made in five years?

Robert J. Wolfe, the 33-year-old general manager of the Princeton Forrestal Center, is happy to be asked that question. "The reason you don't see much from the road," he explains, "is that this was the first project to break the pattern of strip development along Route 1."

"Essentially this is the cluster concept applied to office space," says Mr. Wolfe. "The ratio of open space to developed land is high. Almost a third of the land is dedicated to open space. We still have a herd of deer living out here."

If you drive in from Route 1 on College Road East, you will see plenty of development. Behind the band of permanently dedicated open space, which along with rights of way totals 622 acres, are 11 office and research offices that house personnel from Grumman, Remington Rand, Mobil Oil, IBM and numerous other companies. A large building for Xerox is under construction. An even larger conference center being developed by a Danish company, Scanticon, is expected to be completed by spring of next year. It will include 300 guest rooms.

Already a Waiting List. If you drive in to the portion on the west side of Route 1, accessible by Forrestal Road, you see the first cluster of townhouses that are part of Forrestal Village, the planned 94-acre, 600-unit residential community. The first 59 townhouses have been sold, and 20 occupied (another nine are for sale--they are in the $130,000 price range.)

Fully occupied, and already subject to availability through a waiting list, are the 120 rental units the University constructed in the same area for moderate income renters. The monthly rents are about $275 for one bedroom and $335 for two bedrooms.

But has the project been the kind of success the University wanted? Mr. Wolfe points out that the University first of all wanted to exert a positive influence on the overall development of Route 1, since that land forms part of the University's own backyard.

BUSINESS In Princeton

He points to several other developments, by private developers, as examples of just that happening. Carnegie Center, located at Alexander Road and Route 1, in West Windsor Township, now is planning for construction of a Hyatt hotel at that site. Zoning approval has been obtained from West Windsor. North of the Forrestal, the Bellemead development company has constructed a two-story office building in South Brunswick Township, called the Princeton Corporate Center.

"I believe both the Carnegie Center and the Princeton Corporate Center are higher quality developments than what otherwise might have occurred," said the Forrestal general manager. "We are not a small project but we are a small part of the overall region and we hope to influence the development of that region."

'Exceeded Projections.' The other goal set by the University trustees, says Mr. Wolfe, was that Princeton gain as much financial return on its investment in the Forrestal project as it would if the money were tied up in the school's endowment fund. Mr. Wolfe says that the University is realizing an equivalent return.

John P. Moran, the former University vice president for planning, plant and properties who oversaw the Forrestal development in its incipient period, guesses that the University has more than met its hopes for the project. "From a real estate point of view, the University's growth has been constant," he says. "My impression is that they have exceeded their projections."

For the record, the University is saying that the Forrestal project already is bringing in $400,000 a year. It hopes that the project will eventually yield $1 million annually.

With a few exceptions, the University's return is based on the revenue from long-term, 50-year leases to firms seeking to develop property within the center. In the last few years the going rate has increased from $80,000 an acre to $100,000 an acre, for five-acre minimums. The amo nts are pre-paid for the 50-, ear period, with an optio to renew for two 10-year pe ods after that. Ultimately the and reverts to the University.

"I don't expect to be around when all that happens," says Mr. Wolfe, as he explains the facts and figures.

Potential in the Millions. The potential for future earnings is still high. In the office research portion of the Forrestal Center, the University has 380 acres left to develop. At the current lease fee that land represents gross income of $38 million. That amount would have to amortized, in effect, over 50 years.

BEHIND THE FORRESTAL FOREST: In this aerial view looking south, College Road East, the Forrestal's principal artery, can be seen winding through the forests and off a dead end in the middle of what is now a corn field. Eventually it will connect with the proposed Plainsboro bypass and lead back to Route 1, which is out of view to the right. The construction in the foreground includes new Prudential office buildings, the Scanticon Conference Center, and an office for RCA.

Most of the 277-acre academic research area is occupied by the Plasma Physics Laboratory and the Geophysical Fluid Dynamics Laboratory. But a portion in one corner, just north of FMC's office on Route 1, seems appropriate for more office research. University officials are now seeking another zoning change in Plainsboro that would convert 100 acres of the academic research area to educational office research.

A 1969 graduate of Princeton University, Mr. Wolfe earned an MBA at Stanford Business School in 1972. He then worked at Stanford University, on the financial side, but not directly involved with Stanford's industrial park, a Forrestal-like project that has been cited as a precursor to Princeton's development.

Mr. Wolfe returned to Princeton in 1974, as assistant to the financial vice president, and left in 1976 as assistant treasurer. At that time he went to work for K. S. Sweet Associates, the King of Prussia, Pa., land planning firm that has been the University's chief consultant on the Forrestal project. He was appointed to handle the Forrestal account and is now general manager of the project, as well as a partner in the Sweet firm.

FORRESTAL CORNERSTONE: Groundbreaking ceremonies five years ago signalled not only the beginning of construction of this headquarters building for the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, but also the beginning of the University's Forrestal Center development that occupies 1,604 acres on both sides of Route 1 just north of Harrison Street and Plainsboro Road. Since then about $100 million in construction has been completed or is underway at the Forrestal Center, but this remains the only building visible from Route 1.

HIGH RATING GIVEN

To Architectural Firm. CUH2A, an architecture, engineering and planning firm at 45 State Road, was ranked first in New Jersey and 54th in the nation in the category of architect-engineer by "Building Design and Construction" magazine.

The magazine annually publishes its listing of "300 Giants of the Industry" in July, and the ratings reflect the yearly volume of activity of all major firms in the industry.

ADMINISTRATION MOVES

Agricultural Research Stays. The administration and marketing sections of Cyanamid's agricultural division are now located at corporate headquarters in Wayne.

The Princeton location on Quaker Bridge Road will continue to be the home for Cyanamid's agricultural research division. Cyanamid's worldwide agricultural research activities have been steadily growing in size and scope since the early 1970's and are directed from here. Research staff will occupy the former administration building. Also, approval of plans to build two additional greenhouses will soon be sought from West Windsor Township.

Centralization of Cyanamid's operating divisions was initiated a few years ago, and the process will be completed with the agricultural division's move.

American Cyanamid Company purchased its present location in the Princeton area in the early 1950's, and in 1961 Cyanamid moved the agricultural operation from New York City to Princeton.

The agricultural division has undergone two decades of growth and expansion while in Princeton, and this move is another step in helping to meet the future needs of agriculture. Cyanamid is a major producer of animal health products and crop chemicals used in the production of meat and grain worldwide.

Sun-tanned beaches!

Glorious palaces!

(and a burglar stripping your house while you enjoy.)

The cheerful word from the New Jersey State Police is that "A New Jersey home is burglarized on the average of every four and one-half minutes." or 117,244 in 1979.

Many of these burglaries occur in the summer when people—including you—are away on vacation, leaving your house vacant and vulnerable.

The Superintendent of New Jersey's State Police, Colonel Clinton L. Pagano, has advice for vacationers, and it has nothing to do with suntan lotion:

1. Close and lock all doors, including porch, basement and garage. Use pin-tumbler cylinder locks on outside entrances and safety latches on the windows.

2. Connect a lamp to an automatic timer to turn lights in the home on and off each evening. Since sound is a deterrent, connect radio or TV to a timer.

3. Protect all doors and windows with an inexpensive, portable burglary alarm which sounds whenever someone attempts to break in.

4. Light up your porch and yard with outdoor lights to increase the likelihood that an attempted burglary will be seen. These lights can also be timer-controlled if you wish.

5. Be sure all screens are fastened from the inside.

6. Never leave valuables lying around. Keep them in a safety deposit box.

7. Tell your police department when you'll be leaving and how long you expect to be away.

8. Cancel all deliveries—newspaper, laundry, cleaning, etc.

9. Have a neighbor, or the post office, hold all mail until your return. Ask your mail carrier about procedures.

10. Arrange to have someone mow the lawn and sweep your sidewalk once a week and pick up any circulars or handbills that may be left on your property.

11. Leave your draperies and blinds as you normally do. Closed blinds keep the sun out but also make an effective screen for the burglar.

Dinky Station

In the first place, she pointed out, talks and plans for developing the Dinky area pre-date formation of the New Jersey Transit Corporation, which was established in July of 1979 and has only had a board, according to Mr. Solow, since early in 1980. In the second place, the money involved is not solely for the development of offices, or whatever, but to help subsidize the actual transportation system–that is, to keep the Dinky running.

This is not necessarily the case, she commented, in other towns where New Jersey Transit is interested in preserving stations.

"What we want," Mr. Macgill emphasizes, "is an agreement with whoever is in charge, giving us an option to seek a developer to take over as a sub-tenant of the Borough and Township, building an income-producing property with several hundred parking spaces, refurbishing the station, assuming the entire responsibility, and paying the Borough and Township enough rent so we can pay the state $50,000 a year."

He also emphasized that the joint venture set up by the municipalities would not pay the state anything until a developer was signed and firmly in hand.

Mr. Macgill said that because he had not yet received the letter, he could not comment on it in detail. He did say:

"Any proposal that shifts the maintenance responsibility for that dilapidated station area to the taxpayers of the Borough is simply not acceptable."

When Mr. Macgill says "whoever is in charge," he is referring to re-organization by the state that left both Borough and Township wondering who was indeed in charge.

Commissioner Gambaccini says he had asked the Right-of-Way section of the Department of Transportation to handle the Dinky question before New Jersey Transit was set up last July. Then when the corporation came into being, it took over, and, in the Commissioner's words, "seemed to be moving on separate tracks."

Mr. Solow wrote Princeton Township last spring — and Mr. Macgill says he had heard that Mr. Solow had been in his job only four days when he wrote the letter — telling the municipality not to take any action until it heard from his office. The Township had been about to pass a resolution agreeing to join the Borough in the Dinky project, having procrastinated in the matter for some months.

Mr. Solow, asked about the apparent confusion, said New Jersey Transit owns the station property, is responsible for all decisions and is using the DOT as negotiating agent because of the DOT's expertise in this line.

"Our main concern is how the station would be operated if development didn't go through," he said, "and development takes time, even if it does go through. What happens in the interim?"

FUNDS FOR TRAINING HOSPITAL VOLUNTEERS: Mrs. Lois DeConca, a Rossmoor Volunteer, presents an Exxon Corporation Grant to Dennis W. Doody, Executive Vice-President of The Princeton Medical Center. Obtained by Mrs. DeConca, the funds will be used in the production of a slide presentation of volunteer activities and opportunities at the Medical Center. Ms. Valerie Dalto, Director of Volunteer Services, looks on.

"I have told the Right of Way section and New Jersey Transit to advise me if there is an impasse," Commissioner Gambaccini said. "I want them to have a harmonious discussion, and I'm not aware that anything New Jersey Transit wants is out of line with what anybody else wants."

—Katharine H. Bretnall

APPLICATIONS DUE

For Service Academies. U.S. Senators Harrison A. Williams, Jr. (D-NJ) and Bill Bradley (D-NJ) have announced that young men and women interested in seeking nominations to the U.S. Naval, Air Force, Merchant Marine and Military Academies should apply no later than October 27 for the class entering in July, 1981.

Candidates must be citizens of the United States, legal residents of the state of New Jersey, unmarried and have no children, and be at least 17 but not past their 22nd birthday on July 1 of the year of admission. All applicants must take the SAT or ACT exams. The SAT administered on November 1 is the last which can be taken if results are to be received prior to the selection of nominees for the academies. SAT's may be taken more than once and the highest scores will be used.

Senators Williams and Bradley base their selections on SAT or ACT scores, class rank, grade point average, school records, extra-curricular activities, leadership potential, motivation and recommendations.

Young people seeking nominations should write to their United States Senators and their Congressman. Addresses of the United States Senators from New Jersey are: Honorable Harrison A. Williams, Jr., Room 352 Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510 and Honorable Bill Bradley, Room 1404 Dirksen Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510.

RECORD SET

At Bucks Playhouse. The recent three-week run of "Fiddler On The Roof" at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope, broke all box-office records in the theatre's 41-year history. Every seat in the 453-seat theatre on the Delaware was sold for nine consecutive performances prior to the beginning of its final week.

As a result, the producers are bringing the musical back for four weeks from September 17 through October 12 as part of the Fall season. It will be followed by "Man Of LaMancha" from October 16 through November 2; "The Fantasticks" from November 6 through November 16; and "Jesus Christ, Superstar" from November 20 through December 7.

For further information regarding performance times, group sales, and season subscriptions, call the Playhouse box office (215) 862-2041.
